

SUNDAY JULY 1

PICK OF THE DAY

DATE NIGHT

9.30pm, Channel Ten

Sure, it's not the greatest movie ever made, but the combination of Steve Carell and Tina Fey is hard to resist. Not every gag works and the tone is a bit uneven, but there are some fabulous set pieces and plenty of x-factor from both our two leads, and Mark Wahlberg.

THE BLOCK: FINAL

6.30pm, Channel Nine

With the auction held yesterday — and last year's non-auction still vivid in our memories — it'll be interesting to see how this year's big finale pans out. Certainly, the properties are desirable. Without the cameras on them, will Melbourne buyers be prepared to pull out the chequebooks?

NEW GIRL

7pm, Channel Ten

What's this? Could something be afoot between Jess and one of her housemates? Tonight is all about passion: Winston's unseemly passion for Shelby; Schmidt's awkward passion for Cece (and her crazy Russian flatmate); and Russell's passion for ... well, there's the rub.

DAILY WRAP

It's one of the great ironies of the 21st century that while as a society we're obsessed with youth, that same society is rapidly and inexorably ageing. Most of the time, we like to pretend it's not happening. When it is discussed, those discussions tend to focus on the terrible and growing burden of caring for the old and infirm. So how refreshing to watch Compass: The 100+ Club (6.30pm, ABC1) and meet three centenarians still giving life a red-hot crack. It's particularly poignant as all three are inarguably old and infirm — they're more than 100 years old, after all — but they're achieving things (from memoir-writing to shot-put competitions) and enjoying life.
